DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

This building is one of a group of 9 rowhouses of varied, yet compatible designs. What was once the basement level of this  $2\frac{1}{2}$  story house has been converted into a shopfront inframed with stainless steel. Above the first floor the walls are of random laid rockcut granite. There is an entrance to the upper floors on the left, and a second entrance to the shop between two display windows. A signboard tops the shopfront.

The original 1st floor now appears as the 2nd floor, its lower portion hidden by the upper part of the shopfront. To the left is a window of 2 fixed panes with a basket handled transom above (filled by glass blocks). This apeture was the original entrance. To the right is a large paned shop window.

On the second floor the original bay window has been removed and been replaced by a large fixed pane window flanked by extremely narrow side lights, each consisting of an upper and lower awning type sash and tan brick infill.

The slate mansard of the attic floor is embellished by a hipped roof extension. A large wall dormer also with a hipped roof stands slightly bracketed out from the wall. Three tall single pane casements, each topped by a nine paned transom are recessed behind the full arch of the dormer. The hipped roof has an extension, triangular in plan at its peak which forms a minute ornamental dormer, further embellished by fretwork arches on its 2 diagonal planes.
